Forget the preconceived notions of what you “think” an escorted tour is all about. In today’s unsettling world, a well-chosen escorted tour will not only make your dream vacation come true, it will also save time, minimize stress, and give you peace of mind. A good travel escort is like a vacation coach—encouraging you to try a new cuisine, learn a few words of a new language, participate in the customs and culture of a foreign land, or just do something out of the ordinary.

On many of the trips, AAA Sojourns Escorts will provide personalized service and ensure that your needs are met. They take care of the trip details for you, so you can sit back and enjoy the journey. Not only are they trained at solving any issues that may arise when traveling, they also have specialized knowledge about your destination that will make the trip even more exciting.

Our AAA Sojourns collection of escorted tours includes truly-unique trips in the U.S., Canada, Mexico, Europe, Japan, South America, and the South Pacific. We’ll take you to places off the beaten path where you’ll discover new experiences. We offer a cultural exchange program to Cuba where you can hunt for wild orchids with Henry Tenenbaum, co-host of KRON4 News Weekend and anchor of Henry’s Garden, or you can shop for deals at the Christmas Markets in Germany and Austria, or the winter bargains in Paris. We have new tours which let you travel Italy by Vespa in style, or see the areas in New Zealand of The Lord of the Rings fame. Closer to home, our escorted tours take you to Branson, for the best of country and popular music, or New England, just in time for fall foliage. Whatever your vacation dream, our escorted tours are truly a wonderful way to go.

FAMILY VACATIONS

MARYBETH'S TRAVEL TIPS

On vacation, young kids are raring to go in the morning and have extra energy to burn off in the evening. The resort you select will make a difference. Nothing settles kids down more than swimming. And an included breakfast will settle growling tummies and keep you on budget.

From reliving the Polar Express to witnessing an Old West gunfight, travel brings the extraordinary to life—for you and your family. Family vacations like these are the stuff of cherished memories and often-told family tales. From a Thanksgiving cruise to the Caribbean to riding the rails to the Grand Canyon, we can help make family travel today easier than ever before. For example, our Outlaws, Legends & Ghosts trip to visit the legendary towns of the Southwest combines an exciting adventure on the Colorado River with exploration of Southwest Indian culture and an Old West gunfight. Whether on land or at sea, AAA Sojourns family vacations never looked so good.

SOME HELPFUL HINTS FOR FAMILY TRAVEL:

- Read guidebooks and watch travel videos together before the trip so your children know what to expect and can look forward to the experience.
- Search the Web to learn more about your trip and share this information with the children, or encourage them to search the Web themselves.
- A favorite toy or stuffed animal can be a comforting travel-buddy for your child when far from home.
- If you're traveling any part of the vacation in a car or bus, bring along lightweight games or books to keep the kids entertained.
- Remember to pack the first-aid kit.
- Your child can chronicle the journey with a kid-friendly camera and travel journal.
- Bring an address book. Keep in touch with future penpals you'll meet along the way.
- Kids love maps! Junior navigators can learn geography and keep everyone on track at the same time.
- Encourage your child to start a collection (rocks, postcards, stickers, foreign coins, key chains, refrigerator magnets) so that they can search at each destination for something to add.
- Once you're back home, make a scrapbook (or trip Web site) with stories and photos from your adventure to share with friends and family.

VILLA STAYS IN ITALY

Imagine experiencing Italy like a native. You'll spend sunny days savoring la dolce vita—"the sweet life," as they say in Italy—exploring hillside villages, shopping at the local markets, preparing home-cooked Italian dinners, and going into town for a morning cappuccino or evening gelato. Happily, AAA Sojourns makes it easy to live like the locals with vacation rentals in charming private villas.

In Italy, a private "villa" may describe anything from an individual home to spacious apartments carved out of privately-owned farms, country estates, and medieval castles. Usually, there are only two or three apartments on each property; they generally have their own private terrace or garden areas, and often share a pool with other apartments and/or the owner.

Many of the most popular rentals are in Tuscany, or in its quieter neighbor Umbria, and are convenient to village shops and trattorias, where you can shop and take in the local color and scenery. The Tuscan and Chianti countryside is sublime, with gentle rolling hills dotted with stately poplars and cypress trees, silvery-green olive groves, vineyards, and fields of sunflowers. Much of the countryside remains undiscovered, and the centuries-old rhythms of its towns remain undisturbed, except for the sweet music of church bells at noon. Yet, the rich cultural offerings of Florence, Siena, Assisi, and other towns are usually only a short drive or train ride away.

Aside from the aesthetic advantages, the practical benefits of renting a villa include comfort, convenience, and overall cost. Most private villas are bigger than a hotel room, are fairly priced, and allow you to cook your own meals with fresh, local ingredients. Shopping for groceries at local markets gives you an authentic feel for Italian life; instead of a tourist, you become a participant, immersed in the everyday pleasures of Italy. Since most villa rentals have a one week minimum, you unpack only once, making it easy to relax in a home-like setting and set your own vacation pace. Your villa can be whatever you desire—a base for day trips to Florence and Rome, a reunion of far-flung friends, the perfect excuse for basking in "the sweet life" of Italy.

Experience the warmth, hospitality, and culture of Italy like the locals, in a private villa of your own. Prices for a week's stay range upward from $400, depending on size, quality, and season. And of course, you can rent an entire villa, estate, or castle, and share the costs with congenial, like-minded friends or family members.

Sample Villas:

- Villa La Pera is situated in one of Tuscany's most beautiful areas, just 1 km from Siena. Dating back to the 18th century, the villa has undergone many restorations, and has a TV, dishwasher, and shady outdoor space with dining table and barbecue. It can accommodate 15 guests.
- Il Nibbio, near the village of Lecchi, in the Chianti region, is an independent apartment in the former tower of an 11th century hilltop castle. It has a private swimming pool with panoramic views of the countryside, wood-beamed ceilings, fireplace, and tasteful furnishings. The castle's courtyard is shared with other units. Il Nibbio sleeps 5 (2-week minimum stay).
- Casa Gioia is a charmingly restored stone and brick cottage built in the typical Tuscan style, 35 km southeast of Siena. Ideally-situated for day trips to the nearby Abbey of San Galgano, San Gimignano, and Florence, it has a spacious outdoor area with covered pergola for enjoying the panoramic views. The tastefully furnished country-style house has a fireplace, satellite-TV, phone, and accommodations for 4.
- Rapale, situated between Siena and Arezzo, is a typical Tuscan farmhouse overlooking the Chianti hills. Located on the edge of hilltop hamlet, the farmhouse has 7 nice apartments with terracotta floors, beamed ceilings, and Tuscan details. All units have outdoor spaces, with access to a secluded swimming pool, barbecue, and washing machine. Unit size varies; each sleeps 3 to 6 guests.

Includes:

- 7-night rental from Saturday to Saturday, including bath and bed linens
- Insurance policies covering legal liabilities
- Driving instructions to get to villa
- Features vary from villa to villa; some may include private swimming pools, TV, washing machines, and maid service
